In Ireland, while attending the World Flower Show, I had dinner with a lady who told me the following story that I would like to share with you.

“I was new in garden club and really didn’t know what to do. A member encouraged me to attend a National Convention that was close to home at the time. I made a new friend at the meal like we do so often. She gave me attention and took the time to explain many details about garden clubbing.

As we began to leave, she handed me her Business Card. When she left the table, I looked at the card and she was a state president. It made a lasting impression that she took the time for me and has been an encouragement to me over the years.”

Use the following example of a Business Card. There are online companies that will print large quantities for a nominal cost.

Have them handy in your purse! It identifies you as a helping hand to someone.
